

H. Clendenen came to this Township in 1819, and is now living in the Township, and is its largest property owner. On the south runs Macoupin Creek, and on the west, Illinois River. It was formerly nearly all timber land but being settled by enterprising and industrious people, some of the best farms in that part of the county is within its borders.